National Workforce Development Month Toolkit and Resources

LeadingAge is excited to kick off National Workforce Development Month in September – a month to celebrate our dedicated aging services workforce and support its development through new resources. We encourage members to support Workforce Development Month and spotlight your teams with our toolkit of turnkey member resources developed specifically for you!

Thanks to you, we collectively met with roughly 60 Congressional offices last week - and that does not include the meetings we completed before and after!

The stories and information shared painted a compelling picture of the workforce crisis across the long-term care continuum. In addition, the relationships we are developing with Congressional offices will allow all of us to further this important dialogue.

Please remember to share your feedback on your meetings with us!

The Power of LeadingAge

Each and every day, LeadingAge's state partners and network of nonprofit and mission-driven providers are making America a better place to grow old by offering quality affordable housing, delivering expert services, and providing compassionate care. We created a new video to help communicate the importance of this critical work. Please share this new resource and incorporate it into your organization's communication strategies!

"How To" Tools to Positively Shift Perceptions of Aging Services

Opening Doors to Aging Services is a national-local initiative to help providers introduce the aging services sector to the public—and to shift perceptions positively. The initiative provides clear, research-backed strategies and tested messages to apply throughout your existing communications. You can help consumers understand the vital, quality services you deliver and showcase the sector to potential aging services employees by using Opening Doors guidance in your ongoing work.

All the resources you need are at OpeningDoors.org: research, communications strategies, messenger guidance and other assets! Watch this short video for an overview and find tips on adopting these strategies in the LeadingAge Learning Hub QuickCasts and workshops to help tell an authentic story of aging services and move perceptions positively. Use the new LeadingAge Provider Inspiration Guide to see how other LeadingAge members already are using these important resources!

New LTSS Report: Job Design for Home-Based Care

Job Design for Home-Based Care: Perspectives of Employers and Personal Care Aides documents how home care agencies across different business models address job design and the work environment for nonmedical personal care aides (PCA). The research report is based on interviews with leaders and PCAs at 11 home care agencies and surveys of leaders at 10 of the 11 agencies.
